CORAM : HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE P.B.MAJMUDAR

ORAL JUDGEMENT

By filing this petition, the petitioner-detenu has challenged his detention order dated 08-01-2004, by which he is detained under P.A.S.A. as a "bootlegger". Along with the said order, the petitioner is served with the grounds of detention. In the grounds of detention, there is a reference about three criminal cases registered against the petitioner. All these cases are registered under the Bombay Prohibition Act. However, no statement of any witness is recorded by the authority. The detaining authority after considering the material on record has passed the order of detention, which is impugned in this petition.

2) Mr.Prajapati, learned advocate for the petitioner submitted that the last incident registered against the petitioner is of 17-11-2003, and after a considerable time of about more than one and a half month, the order of detention was passed on 08-01-2004. He submitted that when there are registered cases against the petitioner, it was not necessary to wait for such a long time in passing the order of detention, especially when there is no other material available and even statements of witnesses are not recorded. He submitted that, therefore, on the ground of delay in passing the order, this petition is required to be allowed.

3) In this behalf, reference is made to the decision of Elesh Nandubhai Patel Vs. Commissioner of Police, Ahmedabad City & Others reported in 1997 (1) G.L.H. 381 wherein this Court has observed in Para 21 as under:-

> "21. In the instant case, the last registered case is of May 20, 1996. The petitioner detenu was granted anticipatory bail by the competent Court. He was also granted regular bail subsequently. The impugned order of detention has been passed on November 05, 1996, i.e. after a delay of 5 months and 15 days. It is of course true that the detaining authority has relied on two incidents of 2nd October and 10th October 1996, both unregistered cases. I have gone through the allegations. I fail to understand if the allegations are really of such a grievous nature, why the cases have not been registered against the petitioner. There appeared to be some substance in the contention of the petitioner that these two unregistered cases have been referred only with a view to cover up the gap or > to give life to a stale case. This unexplained delay makes a ground of detention not proximate, vitiating the order of detention itself. If I am to buttress my findings, I would say the reference may be made to the decision of the Supreme Court in Anand Prakash V. State of U.P. reported in AIR 1990 SC 516 and Pradeep Nilkanth v. S.Ramamurthy reported in 1993(2) Suppli. SCC 61."

4) Unfortunately, no affidavit in reply has been filed by the authority explaining the delay in passing the detention order, even file is not made available for the perusal of the Court. Therefore, the averment made in the petition about delay in passing the order, is not controverted by the authority. Under these circumstances, there is no other alternative but to set aside the order of detention on the ground of delay in passing the detention order from the date of last incident.

5) In view of above, this petition is allowed. The order of detention dated 08-01-2004 is quashed and set aside. The detenu, Vijaybhai Umariyabhai Vasava is ordered to be set at liberty forthwith, if he is not required in connection with any other case. Rule is made absolute.
